

structuring or control of an organisation” – a lengthy and difficult definition to contend with. The subclass, however, identifies such activities as including the development of management reports and audits.

